

I am against providing access to Internet communications to Law Enforcement agencies without strict oversight by judicial agencies. By creating "backdoors" it makes it more likely that these powers will be abused. Monitoring private communications on the internet should be regarded with the same privacy as US postal mail and afforded the same rights and status.

Thank you.

Steve Midgley
Mill Valley, California